1.2 Progress in implementation of reforms between September 2012 and January 2013

The reform implementation process in Uttar Pradesh has leapt forward significantly between September 2012 and January 2013.

Some of the practices instituted are very innovative and provide a shining example of how services of the ULBs can be proactively restructured to take them closer to people and move towards a more open and transparent system of functioning.

Agra Nagar Nigam stands out in this regards. The local body has attempted to personify the meaning of transparency through data availability on all physical works that are ongoing through a simple yet sophisticated format. Each of the works being carried out across the city can be accessed by any citizen through the website at the mere click of a button. The resultant data allows the user to see various layers of information based on preference. For instance, if the citizens of a particular ward want to see what works have been commissioned within their ward and how much progress has been achieved, the same can be viewed through various report formats that are built in into the website of the local body. This is perhaps one of the most pioneering works which embodies the spirit of good governance, transparency as well as public disclosure. This pioneering concept can perhaps be replicated across ULBs in the country.

In order to facilitate services delivery to citizens, Meerut Nagar Nigam has deployed kiosks providing information on Property Tax in all its zonal offices. These kiosks have also been linked to cashless payment mechanisms to further facilitate easy clearance of dues for citizens.

Kanpur Nagar Nigam has started deploying retired personnel from the Property Tax Department for recovery of dues on a commission basis. Kanpur Nagar Nigam has instituted a "Centre for Excellence" within its premise. This facility is being used for training ULB personnel and also for capacity building and enhancement for one and all within and outside Kanpur Nagar Nigam.
